

Why Outsource Your Fibre Blowing?

We save you time

We are ready to go 24/7/365. You book a distance and a date...we collect your reels and do the rest. We can liaise with your Traffic Management company (or arrange it on your behalf).

We know you can be busy with the network build, worrying about the blowing is just another hassle.

As specialists in blowing fibre we focus on the technical details and leave you to focus on your network.

Your team is freed up to work on the next phase of the build.

We save you money

Fibre blowing equipment is expensive to buy, operate and to maintain.

We run a fleet of "up to the minute" blowers, loggers and compressors so you don't have to.

We maintain this equipment so when you need fibre blowing its ready to go.

We keep backup equipment something that's not really possible for most companies.

Under utilised capital equipment can be wasteful, you could use your capital where its more beneficial to you.

We make it easier

As specialists in all types of fibre blowing we are experienced, trained and qualified to handle anything that is thrown at us.

We treat the cable with the care we know it needs. We know its technical specifications.

Avoiding damage to the fibre is built into every single part of our installation process.

We know what impact the microduct route can have on the cables installation and we have techniques for mitigating them.

We live and breathe blown fibre which makes the process far easier for you.

We're i4.0 auditable

We are unique in that all our blowing equipment is designed to be used with a "logger" which allows us to record every single aspect of the installation.

Metre by metre reports are created live and emailed to the client to prove the cable has not been damaged during the installation.

In addition to this we fully test the pipe before installation to minimise any issues during the blow.

Our PDF reports give you confidence that your investment is safe.
